8. (Internal Use Only - LLM) Ed Braswell, Senate Armed Services Committee staff, called and asked if we could help him by preparing the comparative law analysis under the Cordon Rule for the Senate Committee report on H.R. 14571. I said we would do this. He hopes the Committee report he is drafting will be approved by the Committee some time next week.

9. 2. (Unclassified - GLC) Marion Ball, USIA Legislative Liaison, called regarding an inquiry which Senator George Murphy (R., Calif.) has received from a constituent and forwarded to USIA. This has to do with a broadcast the constituent claims to have heard from Moscow radio on 16 November. It was allegedly indicated in this broadcast that the 15 November moratorium was organized in Stockholm and was part of a world-wide effort. Mrs. Ball is trying to obtain a copy of the text of this broadcast. FBIS is sending her the closest thing they can find to it.

3. (Confidential - GLC) Jay Sourwine called again to see how we were progressing in determining whether we wanted to take a position in the release of any or all of the [ ] testimony. He said unless we wanted it released he doubts that the Subcommittee will release any of it. He said he didn't want to prod us but that Senator Eastland is getting edgy about the cost to the Subcommittee for [ ] stay here. I told Sourwine I would check with our people but that I expected our review of the testimony would be completed shortly.

1. (Confidential - GLC) In response to his earlier query, I told Jay Sourwine, on the staff of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, that we just could not take a position on the question of whether the Subcommittee should allow [ ] a large degree of freedom during his stay in this country. I said our original position was one of reservation about [ ] and we still held to that view. Sourwine said he did not think [ ] wanted publicity in this country other than to publish his manuscript and he (Sourwine) would rather have him publish his book outside of this country than in this country. I told him I thought this was a reasonable position for him to take and added that we could go no further on this.

2. (Confidential - GLC) Advised Ed Braswell, on the staff of the Senate Armed Services Committee, that the Agency's retirement bill had been passed by the House this morning. Braswell said he planned to talk with Senator Stennis this afternoon to see if he wanted to take the bill up at a Committee meeting this Thursday. If this is the case, Braswell expected it would be taken up in executive session but he would want standby witnesses from the Agency. He will be in touch with us as soon as he has something further on this.
